DEAN, OLD QUARTER BACK, ROASTS HARVARD "SYSTEM"

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

CAMBRIDGE, MASS., December 1.—Dudley Dean, Harvard's famous old quarterback, in an article in the Harvard Monthly, rakes Harvard's foot-ball "system" over the coals and fladly contradicts all statements concerning favorlisms and society infuence at Harvard. "Such accusations," says Dean, "are absolute and malicious lies. There will always be in a body of men at Harvard University some who are disgruntled, but if these disgruntled spirits over bring proof to representative Harvard graduates of athletic favor-

Manufacturers Believe Resistance Will Wear Away as Winter Advances.

(By Associated Press.)
FALL RIVER, MASS., December 1.—
After more than four months, the struggle between the local cotton manufacture. After more than four months, the struggle between the local cotton manufacturers and the union operatives, who are on strike, appears to becoming acute. The situation is due mainly to the determined effects of the mainly to the determined effects of the mainly to the determined effects of the manufacturers to shatter the union forces. This is the third week since the mill gates were reopened after being closed for sixteen weeks, in connection with the effort to break the strike. Conflicting claims are made by both sides as to the result of the move, but it is apparent that soveral thousand non-union hands have gone to work. The union members as a "body," however, are still holding out. The manufacturers figure that the strike will gradually wear away as winter advances.

The unions are receiving assistance from other mill towns, where it is feared that a failure of the Fall River strike would mean a general reduction of wages in the cotton mills of the North. Twenty-two additional collectors have been sent from Fall River this week to the Middle and Western States.
